Boyd Describes Slaying of Wife

Prosecution Opens Cross Examination

A denial that he intended to kill Nancy Lee Boyd when he hurled a jackhandle at her Nov. 5 along Beaver Creek came under sharp cross examination from the prosecution today at the first degree murder trial of William P. Boyd Jr. at Lisbon.

Boyd, 23, of East Liverpool returned to the witness stand to complete his version of how his 18-year-old estranged wife was beaten and shot at the isolated rendezvous.

Dressed in a charcoal grey suit, white shirt and blue and red tie, Boyd spoke in a moderate voice with a soft drawl, occasionally rubbing his nose or coughing slightly into his hand.

Under questioning from Atty. Robert Kapp, defense counsel, Boyd said he threw the auto jack handle at the climax of an argument over Nancy Lee's threat to have an aunt adopt their 11-month-old daughter, Tania.

"I said you'll not adopt that baby to anyone. She started hollering, and I hollered, 'that baby is mine.' She shouted it wasn't mine—that's when I threw the jack handle . . . I lost control of myself."

The defendant was on the stand Monday afternoon from 1:50 to 4 p.m.

Prosecutor William Brokaw began his cross examination at 9:45 this morning after direct examination was completed by Kapp, co-defense counsel with Atty. Ben Berman.

The unanticipated lengthy questioning of Boyd moved the closing stages of the trial—final arguments and Judge Raymond Buzard's charge to the jury—to

East Palestine Annexation Issue Placed on Ballot

The County Election Board at East Liverpool today granted a ballot place for a vote at the May 8 primaries on an East Palestine ordinance providing for annexation of nearby areas of Unity Township.

If voters approve, East Palestine will annex parts of sections 23, 24 and 27 in Unity Township. However, East Palestine and New Waterford—the two incorporated communities in the township—will not have a vote on the question, Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk of the board, explained. Law provides only the unincorporated areas of the township have a vote in such a case.

The question will be voted upon in the north, southeast, southwest

After Ex-Dictator's Followers Swept Elections

Argentine President Moves To Outlaw Peronist Activity

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—President Arturo Frondizi moved today to outlaw all Peronist activity in Argentina again in an effort to stave off military leaders angered by the election gains of the ex-dictator's followers.

Government sources said Frondizi was drafting a decree to nullify all victories of Peronist candidates who scored a nationwide sweep in gubernatorial and congressional elections Sunday.

Frondizi already has decreed federal control in five of the 10 provinces where followers of deposed dictator Juan D. Peron won governorships and placed army commanders in temporary control.

The beleaguered president was reported drafting a new decree which would not only cancel out Peronist election victories but ban singing of Peronist songs, displaying of Peronist banners and any other demonstrations by followers of the ex-president.

Frondizi moved swiftly as a two-headed regime emerged in the nation threatened with civil chaos.

The president struggled to keep his four-year-old civilian regime alive, but across the street from his executive mansion in the War Ministry, the chiefs of the armed services forged a three-man junta to coordinate military plans to deal with the gravest crisis Argentina has faced since Peron's ouster in 1955.

The military was reported split between one faction apparently satisfied with the measures Frondizi was taking and another group demanding absolute repudiation of all Peronist movements immediately, backed up by military force if necessary.

Frondizi displaced the governors of five of the provinces in which the Peronists won control and put the local army commanders in charge. He also named civilian intervenor.

Early today it was learned that the military commanders were to turn over the reins of government to the civilian appointees when they reached the provincial capitals. Some military leaders were reported demanding that the military remain in control of the provinces.

The provinces put under federal control were Buenos Aires, Tucuman, Rio Negro, Santiago del Estero and Chaco.

It was understood that some military garrisons including army garrison and naval establishments had been put on the alert. Military commanders flew to Buenos Aires from all parts of the nation to confer.

Frondizi's action to appease the military touched off a chorus of allies and many foes. The mammoth General Confederation of La-

Would Reduce Controls Stand In Ban Treaty

Reports Indicate U.S. Still Firm On Inspection Plan

GENEVA (AP) — Britain announced today it is ready to accept an "absolute minimum" of control machinery if the Soviet Union will agree to a treaty banning nuclear weapon tests.

The British foreign secretary, Lord Home, appealed to the Soviet government at the 17-nation disarmament conference for a "reasonable compromise" of East-West differences.

Home said Britain recognizes that the Soviet Union had gained "military knowledge and advantage" from its series of nuclear tests last fall.

Britain is prepared to let the Soviet Union keep its advantage, he said, if tests can now be ended forever under a pact providing "an adequate minimum system" of verification to guard against violations.

"We will cooperate both in the field of nuclear tests and of general disarmament in devising the absolute minimum of verification," Home said. "But verification there must be, for without it we shall not gain the confidence even to begin to ban tests let alone tackle the problems of wider disarmament."

Home's speech appeared to confirm reports that Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's government is pressing the United States to cut back radically its demands on the Soviets for machinery to police a test ban. Diplomatic officials are still trying to figure out exactly what they can agree on.

American sources say the United States insists that international verification of a test ban, including international inspectors inside the Soviet Union, is indispensable. Indications are that the British would agree to much less policing than the United States.

Western diplomats at the 17-nation disarmament conference speculated that Gromyko had received new instructions from Premier Khrushchev to keep East-West talks going on Berlin as well as on a nuclear test ban treaty and disarmament issues generally.

Gromyko took the initiative Monday in arranging a brief meeting with Secretary of State Dean Rusk. It was understood the Russian advanced some ideas for dealing with the Berlin situation.

These were due to be explored further at a dinner Gromyko arranged tonight for Rusk and other members of the U.S. delegation to the Geneva conference, including Soviet expert Charles E. Bohlen and the U.S. ambassador to Moscow, Llewellyn Thompson.

Gromyko's move on Berlin came at the end of a day during which Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin announced the Soviet Union was ready to join in new talks with the United States and Britain on a nuclear weapon test ban treaty. U.S. and British officials welcomed the announcement.

Neither of the developments brought any indication of basic changes in Soviet policy. Western officials professed to be encouraged because Gromyko wanted to keep the diplomatic talks going on all fronts here.

The 17 nations in the disarmament conference scheduled two sessions today.

British Foreign Secretary Lord Home, Indian Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon and Romanian Foreign Minister Corneliu Manescu were the speakers for the first session.

The second meeting was arranged as an informal discussion of the similarities and differences between the Soviet and Western disarmament plans.

At a similar informal session Monday Rusk, who plans to return to Washington early next week, said he would be willing to return to Geneva any time it

Edmund H. Harding, the "Tar Heel Humorist" from Washington, N.C., will be speaker for the 12th annual Safety Awards Banquet to be held April 11 at the Masonic Temple.

Area manufacturing and commercial firms which attained outstanding records during the 1961 Columbiana County industrial safety campaign will receive awards at the banquet which is scheduled for 6:30 p.m.

The annual banquet is sponsored by the Industrial Commission of Ohio and the Salem Manufacturers Association. Michael Schuler of Salem, chairman of the Columbiana County Industrial Safety Committee, is in charge of the program.

The speaker has, at various times, been a "Kentucky Colonel," a "Texas Ranger," an "Arkansas Traveler," a life member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, and honorary chief of the Kiowa tribe of Indians and an officer in the "Confederate Air Corps."

In 1961 Mr. Harding made 163 platform appearances, including 18 talks to Rotary Clubs from coast to coast, seven Chamber of Commerce meetings and 12 appearances before bankers groups. He has been rated by speakers bureaus as "the nearest thing to Will Rogers since Will Rogers."

The following Salem firms will be given awards at the banquet for their efforts in the field of industrial safety:

For working the entire year without a lost-time accident — Sekely Industrial Tool & Manufacturing Inc., Paxson Machine Co., Topco Co. Inc., Lyle Printing & Publishing Co., Sebring Container Co., Dodge Publishing Co.

City Fund, Recreation Bills Up for Passage

Salem's 1962 appropriation ordinance and a measure which would open the East Cold Run Reservoir as a controlled recreation area are expected to be passed at the regular meeting of City Council tonight at 7:30 at City Hall.

Both measures have received two previous readings. The appropriation ordinance calls for a record high of $959,616.19 to operate the city this year. The total is up $60,879 over the previous high of $898,736 appropriated in 1961.

The other ordinance would open the 68-acre reservoir south of the city as a controlled area for fishing, boating and picnicking. Due to a ruling by the Ohio Supreme Court last week, it possibly will be necessary for Council to amend a section of the reservoir ordinance before the measure can be passed.

The court ruled that a municipality is without authority to license boats on city-owned reservoirs. The ruling knocked out the controversial licensing system which was used by the city of Akron and is similar to the one proposed in Salem's ordinance.

Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy started the action to prohibit Akron from issuing and requiring city boat licenses. A 1959 law prohibits any political subdivisions of the state from charging license fees on waters owned by the subdivision.

Akron challenged the law and lower courts held the law unconstitutional.

The Supreme Court held, however, that statewide boat licensing is a valid exercise of the state's police powers. The court added the 1959 law preempted to the state the police power in that field.

It was a 4-3 decision with Chief Justice Carl V. Weyandt and Judges Kingley Taft and Charles B. Zimmerman dissenting.

Salem had planned to charge $1 per day for permission to use a private boat on the reservoir.

Aubrey Hayes, superintendent of utilities, says he doubts if the city would lose much revenue because of the Supreme Court ruling. He pointed out that although the city won't be permitted to license boats on the reservoir, it will be able to regulate their use.

Hayes said he would check further before tonight's meeting to find out if the ruling in the Akron case is applicable to the Salem situation. He said it is possible

Moslems Riot In Algerian Towns But Most Rebels Observing Truce

ALGIERS (AP)—Moslems demonstrated in scores of Algerian towns and villages and fired on French troops in at least four areas Monday and today, the French army announced.

The army said its troops "were forced to answer fire" and an undetermined number of persons were killed and wounded. Among those wounded was a French army officer.

The incidents flared up several hours after the cease-fire in the Algerian war went into effect at noon Monday.

The army stressed, however, that most demonstrations in towns and villages of the Algerian interior were peaceful and that in general organized rebel guerrilla groups were observing the cease-fire.

"There has been no operational clash between our troops and rebel bands since the cease-fire went into effect," one French army officer said.

One of the gravest incidents took place in the town of Voltaire, about 100 miles southwest of Algiers. The army said several hundred Moslem civilians led by rebels in uniform swooped down on European sections, screaming nationalist slogans and brandishing weapons.

French troops dispersed the demonstrators with gunfire after being fired on first, the army said. Similar clashes took place in the west Algerian town of St. Denis du Sig and Gervilly and in Les Atails near Orleansville.

The army said no more than 2,000 persons were involved in the

They Walked With Christ

PHILIP

"Now Philip was of Bethsaida, the city of Andrew and Peter."

—John 1:44

The Bible tells very little about this Apostle, save that he was a fellow townsman of Andrew and Peter; and apparently among the first of that little band of Galileans to follow Jesus from the outset of His ministry.

It is clear that Philip had a practical, perhaps even a mathematical turn of mind, for when the hungry multitude that followed Jesus had to be fed, He turned to Philip and asked:

"Whence shall we buy bread, that these may eat?"

Philip apparently made a quick estimate of the number of persons in the crowd and told Jesus:

"Two hundred pennyworth of bread is not sufficient for them, that every one of them may take a little."

There is another indication also (John XII:20-22) that Philip acted as a kind of informal secretary for Jesus. When a number of Greeks, who had come to the Passover feast at Jerusalem, wished to talk with the Nazarene, they sought out Philip.

"Sir," they told him, "we would see Jesus."

Like others of the Disciples, Philip often found it difficult to understand Jesus' words, and His profound meanings.

Jesus told the little company: "If ye had known me, ye should have known my Father also; and from henceforth ye know Him, and have seen Him."

But this assurance only confused Philip. He said, "Lord, shew us the Father, and it sufficeth us."

A little sadly perhaps, Jesus asked Philip then: "Have I been so long time with you, and yet hast thou not known me, Philip? He that hath seen me hath seen the Father; and how sayest thou then, Shew us the Father?"

Philip was with the other Disciples at Jerusalem after the Ascension. And again on the day of Pentecost he is mentioned.

But following that day, our only account of him is tradition, according to which he went as a missionary to Phrygia and was later martyred and buried at Hierapolis.

Pre-School Clinic
Held at Rogers School

LISBON — Columbiana County Health Department personnel Monday conducted pre-school physical examinations at Rogers School, according to Dr. C. S. Palmer, county health commissioner.

They gave 24 immunizations, 13 vaccinations and 10 polio shots. The second round immunizations will be given at Rogers April 16.

Today examinations are being given at Elkton School; Wednesday, West Point; Thursday, United Local, and Friday Calcutta, Dr. Palmer said.

STICK TO BUDGET

BATAVIA, Ohio (AP) — Clermont County commissioners say they will stick to their budget-balancing appropriations even if it means laying off sheriff's deputies.

Sheriff Clyde Dericks asked for more money Monday, saying he will go over his $72,000 annual appropriation unless he cuts off help. The commissioners told Dericks they will try to give him an extra $20,000, but that he will have to lay off deputies if that is not enough.

Looking At the Whole Picture

Upward of 250 witnesses will be heard by the House Ways and Means Committee before its hearings on a new trade program are over.

Each will testify on what the special interest he represents thinks of the proposal. A few will try to reflect the whole picture of trade relations in a changing world that now finds Europeans prospering in an expanding Common Market that has given them a consumer boom and rising wage rates.

These few will insist in looking at the whole picture, though that will not be the popular thing to do. The many will look at small details of the picture, finding them to be good, bad and indifferent.

Yet there never has been so much candor about a trade program before. Backers of the Kennedy administration proposal say that certain industries will be grievously injured, to the degree the federal government will have to help them and their employees. Never has there been a more studied effort to deal with a momentous subject so realistically, admitting the bad features of a free trade policy without hesitation.

The point to be brought out in the hearings is not really what is right or wrong about the specific proposal; its provisions can be and will be altered.

The point is how to put the United States into position to stay even with friendly and unfriendly rivals in a world that has caught up to American standards of quality and productivity. It is how to do something about the quality goods coming here from Japan and the well-designed goods coming out of Europe's modernized and efficient factories. It is how to assure U.S. producers a fair share of the world market.

Trade experts of the past would have no answer. They never had to cope with these circumstances. Men like William McKinley who studied the high protective tariff until they knew every rate by heart and what it meant to the industry it affected would have to start from scratch on the problem. The great necessity is not production at home but protection abroad.

Such men in their time were the saviors of U.S. enterprise. Those who later made cheap careers of criticizing them ignore the obvious fact the trade experts of that era gave Americans what they needed. They helped Americans to reach the world's highest standard of living.

It will take other trade experts and other ideas to protect the U.S. position in the years ahead.

There are new conditions now. To speak of them as if they could be dealt with by old rules is like quoting Gen. Ulysses S. Grant on nuclear warfare—a touch absurd.

Russia Goes to the Polls

There is one advantage to elections in the Soviet Union: Editorials can be written about their outcome before they take place.

Consider the national and regional parliamentary elections held Sunday, for instance.

We knew in advance all the big wheels in the Communist party were going to be re-elected, unless they had been scourged by their fellow big wheels for deviating from the current party line.

WE KNEW there wasn't a chance the premier would be toppled from his seat when the returns came in.

We knew some nonparty members would be elected, but they fill only 40 per cent of the seats available while nonparty members in the total electorate outnumber the Communists 14 to 1.

We knew 99.97 per cent of the electorate would vote, because this is the only way the Communists can indulge their fetish for calling their form of government "democracy."

We knew only about 500,000 voters out of 141 million would dare to vote "no" on the only candidate offered them. What we don't know is whether the same 500,000 will get a chance to vote "no" in the next election. It seems doubtful, but the negativists can't be considered a real threat.

We know that after the newly elected parliamentarians take their seats, their chief function will be to rubber-stamp the proposals of decrees of the recognized leaders.

EVERYTHING in this picture fits together very nicely. It is the ultimate lesson in how to win elections.

The Russians do us a service by going to the polls about the time we are preparing to hold our primary elections. These party affairs are traditionally boycotted by the majority of voters as unimportant.

Are they?

Help Lick Polio

Until recently the beginning of the polio season each year was a time of grave apprehension for parents, although the crippling disease frequently attacked adults. Salem was no exception.

Today there is no need for this fear from polio because of the Salk and Sabin vaccines. The new, completely safe Sabin serum can be obtained by all who want it at specially designated clinic locations established throughout Columbiana County Wednesday and Saturday by the County Medical Society.

It is hard to comprehend the thinking of people who will not avail themselves of the Sabin Type One vaccine this week. Children and adults alike can take the drop of serum in a cup of water and it can be spoon-fed to infants or even put on sugar or candy for small children.

The physicians even recommend the Sabin vaccine for persons who have had the Salk injections because there are three known types of virus which cause poliomyelitis.

Join the fight against polio by getting your drink to better health.

Once Over

Big "True or False" program involves question whether Elizabeth Taylor and Eddie Fisher are busting up. Rumor insists there is trouble on Cleopatra's barge and that cry of "Man overboard" may be heard any day.

Story, denied by all parties, is that Liz has fallen in love with Marc Antony for real, as played by Richard Burton. Burton is more romantic figure, give or take a few shields and odd pieces of body armor, than Eddie. Latter is no Roman emperor type, even if properly costumed, and his attitude toward Egyptian or Roman historic figures is "Who needs 'em?"

"Cleopatra" is costliest movie in history. It couldn't have been more expensive if reason for filming it in Italy had been preceded by a battle brought on by a Nasser refusal to let Liz and Ed pass through Suez Canal.

Italy may have been chosen because it can provide hotels and sufficient room to house the publicity staff.

Original Cleopatra, daughter of Ptolemy XI, had more troubles than even Miss Taylor. The Egyptian sorceress married her own brother, then poisoned him later. That was back when the Nile and Tiber rivers needed no press agents.

Julius Caesar was in her corner and she followed him to Rome. After Julius was bumped off she fled back to Egypt. Marc Antony went there to bawl her out and fell in love with her.

They lost battles at Actium and Alexandria, after which both killed selves. Dramatic element in the Liz and Eddie stores seems trivial and strictly for ladies' matinee trade.

Cleopatra had allure but was not so beautiful as Elizabeth. What Caesar and Antony had that Eddie Fisher and Richard Burton don't have is still open to debate. Probably standing armies for all occasions.

PRESIDENT KENNEDY, after naming 130 Democrats to federal bench, named a Republican the other day. Should this be scored as a wild pitch or a passed ball?

Bowling has become such a household sport that it is routine to hear "Mommer is down at the alley."

Teen-age clerks are alleged to have defrauded a big milk corporation of vast sums through forged checks over a long period without discovery. The office heads must have been concentrating on question how cows were behaving.

Eddie Rickenbacker will reportedly retire if Eastern merges with American. If so a truly great figure will pass from world of aviation. Eddie, chauffeur for Pershing in first world war, turned to aviation and was one of the first men to fly a plane in war. He pioneered commercial air lines later and no drama on stage or screen has ever surpassed the story of his survival with a half dozen others some years ago when a plane crashed in Pacific. For nearly two weeks they drifted on a raft under scorching sun, without fresh water and with only such food as they could get from catching fish. Episode is almost forgotten today, but should be retold again and again.

"Ain't," "goon," "square" and "yeah" are approved in new Webster dictionary. (They don't make none of them finer distinctions in language no more.)

Khrushchev admits having trouble with farm production. Well, you just can't make radish crop do better by waving a shoe, and nobody has ever obtained better production in a pea patch by quoting old proverbs.

I Thought We Came Here To Talk!

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Victor Riesel

There is a mid-way point. Here, down to earth people are somewhat halfway between the "moon" shops in Syracuse, N.Y., and the "astro" companies of the California coast.

When I was in Syracuse recently I learned of 75 General Electric scientists in a think and research operation — Project Apollo — aimed at getting a new crop of astronauts to the moon before the Russians.

On the West Coast several firms are "mocking up" special space ships in which men can live for a year — or more. In these "moon" shops there may be the answers to the down to earth worries of the people here who have helped build the garden variety aerial defense of our land — and now face being phased out of their jobs.

There is the space supply business. I'm told it will run to some $8 billion annually by 1970. AFTER THE 75GE scientists mop up their project, I was told in Syracuse, the full moon job may cost $20 billion. And that will be just the beginning. Once we land there, we'll have to send up space convoys of supplies.

This will mean the creation of vast new industries on earth — fabricating the material to lay roadways and rocket platforms on the dust beds of the moon, creating a new space suit industry, vast new tele-communications systems.

Already the long-term development of these new industries is creating jobs down here on earth. There is, for example, the science of ultra cold — "cryogenics." New metals, new gyroscopes, new equipment are needed to operate accurately in the brutal icy nothingness of space. Small atomic — electric power plants are being developed for use in outer space.

Scientists are working on life support equipment for use in space travel. These include food preservation systems, water and oxygen recovery.

There is, for example, the work on space suits. Sounds almost silly. But not when you count the millions going into the experimentation.

A SPACE SUIT is needed for out-of-ship repairs by astronauts. There is one. It is the "anthropomorphic" space suit — already so well perfected that it can enable a man to work "outside" a craft for some four hours at a time. It has a sleek exterior. This covers a complex series of life support systems.

They include a temperature control mechanism and gadgets which would keep the suit protective for five minutes after it was hit and punctured by a bit of meteoric material. Five minutes would be enough to get the astro-mechanic back inside the craft.

The lunar suit would be more complex. It would require a more extensive internal temperature control system. It would need a fully encompassing compartment, probably filled with water, to maintain an even internal temperature in spite of great changes in the outside atmosphere.

On the moon, an astronaut's suit would have to stand off the heat from the moon's surface. Lunar dust would have to be kept from clinging to the suit surfaces to prevent erosion.

Systems would have to be devised for regulation of oxygen and humidity. There would have to be provision for communications, propulsion and warning of harmful radiation or suit failure.

THE POWER SUPPLY and much of the life support equipment would be carried on the astronaut's back. There would be a chest pack for tools, and extra insulation against surface heat of feet, knees, elbows and seat. There would be a work light that turns with the man's body heat. There would also be an antenna on back of the helmet for a two-way radio.

This is not fantasy. Soon we will be tooling up for such production — not only on space units which require exacting production of such minutiae just for one man, but on the special rocket boosters, space stations, satellite communication way stations. The list will run into thousands of items.

The space business, the experts tell me, will run twice as big as the now almost old-fashioned electronics industry. There will be jobs in the space age. Enough to go around. But these jobs, these industries of the future, must be intelligently dispersed so they will help communities such as Wichita.

There will be work for everyone. What our government must do is see that everyone who has the skill gets his equal share.

Significant Omission

By DAVID LAWRENCE

JFK's Consumer Message Left Facts Out

It is reported that somebody among the White House aides thought up a good title for a special message to Congress "Protecting the Consumer Interest" — and then they all sat around trying to decide what to put in to it.

The net result was a hodgepodge of recommendations, but the message was really significant, not for what it contained, but for what it omitted. The President said in one of the opening paragraphs:

"Fortunate as we are, we nevertheless cannot afford waste in consumption any more than we can afford inefficiency in business or government."

But nowhere in the essay was there anything said in explanation of the "inefficiency in government." The message used up nine long pages of singletyped typewriting and dealt with everything from alleged misrepresentations in advertising of foods and drugs to the kind of lipstick or hair dye that women are misled into buying.

It would seem that somehow consideration now should be given to "a message from the victims of government inefficiency."

For in the many thousands of words in the President's latest message about protecting the consumer, there wasn't a single sentence telling of the damage being done to the consumer by the government itself. There was no reference to the constant diminution of the wages of the citizens through taxes and the attrition of the purchasing power of the dollar as a result of unsound fiscal policies pursued by the administration in Washington, especially as they relate to wasteful expenditures here and abroad.

The President complains that "highly developed arts of persuasion" are being used in America to sell goods to the consumer.

He rightly argues that the consumer should be protected against "fraudulent, deceitful or grossly misleading information, advertising, labeling or other practices" but why hasn't the government itself been efficient in this field? Mr. Kennedy gives the impression that all these abuses have just begun to happen and that nothing has been done about them heretofore. He doesn't mention that the Pure Food and Drug Act has been on the statute books for decades and that the federal trade commission over the past half-century has been charged by Congress with specific responsibility for taking action on these misrepresentations.

HOW MUCH of the taxpayers' money has already gone into the regulatory agencies of the government? Is the President blaming everything now on the absence of laws to deal with these abuses?

As for accidents on the highways, has nothing ever been done by auto manufacturers to try to assure safety for auto drivers, or by those states and cities that issue licenses to driver and conduct periodic inspections of cars? The President seems to think that changes in automobile design and equipment can reduce the casualties—as if the auto manufacturers themselves haven't been spending millions of dollars each year in research on this very subject.

The President wants "simple common names" for drugs in order to avoid confusion and to enable the purchaser to buy the quality drugs at the lowest competitive price but "common names" are all too few and are quickly used up. If something is labeled "a cure for a cold," it may be even more confusing if the label doesn't tell what is distinctive about the medicine or if some name is used that is so vague that the individual can't remember how to describe it when he tells his fellow sufferers about it.

Mr. Kennedy admits that 80 per cent of the drugs do what they claim to do, which means that 20 per cent are subject to criticism. Hasn't this been the case for years, and hasn't the Food and Drug Administration been improving that situation constantly by hard work and efficient investigation?

As for "misleading" salesmanship, is the government itself without fault? Why doesn't the President busy himself with the Post Office Department's collection of money under what might be called "misleading" circumstances? It charges 30 cents for a special delivery stamp, but there are hundreds of towns in the United States where the Post Offices are closed over the weekends and hence no special delivery service is provided.

The public doesn't know which towns these happen to be, so a great deal of money is paid out under an illusion. This is a form of waste imposed on the consumer by the government itself.

AS TO LACK of efficiency in an important operation in one of the government's biggest business enterprises, airmail delivery is a case in point. Many an airmail letter posted during the week—even when there is no adverse weather—takes 24 hours or more for delivery, although the plane carrying it makes the trip in a few hours. Some of the trains between the same points actually arrive hours before the airmail letter does.

Also, there are literally hundreds of cases in which other government departments and agencies cause considerable expense to the citizens and to various businesses and for which today there is no redress or compensation.

What about the misleading statements of politicians? Wouldn't it be "protecting the consumer interest"—or at least the "voter interest"—if all political salesmanship, including messages by the President to Congress and speeches in both houses, were subject every day to the same strict standards of scrutiny and common honesty that Mr. Kennedy now recommends for salesmanship in business?

Defends Cultural Exchange

In answer to Rev. Wells' letter concerning the U.S.-Soviet cultural exchange program, I would like to make a few comments.

First, I question the validity of the argument that cultural exchange with the Russians can only do us harm. There are many fine examples of cooperation and cultural enrichment between the Russians and ourselves through this program. For instance, the Russian Army Chorus and the Moscow Ballet were as well-received in this country, and enjoyed, as was the American acting company which presented George Gershwin's musical "Porgie and Bess" to a Moscow audience.

There has also been excellent cooperation on the university level where many students have gained knowledge which in turn has benefited their respective countries. The excellent cooperation shown by both sides in the IGY project at the South Pole is another example of the benefits which can be derived through cultural exchange. Many other instances could be cited to show how cultural exchange with the Soviets has been far from being a failure.

Granted that we should not overlook the fact that the Russians will and have used this opportunity to smuggle an agent in here and there. However, I believe it is only reasonable to assume that the F.B.I. and C.I.A. are aware of this fact and have taken the necessary preventive methods. It is unreasonable to condemn the cultural exchange program on these grounds and, therefore, lose the only chance we may have to understand who and what the Russian people really are.

As for protesting against groups who ask the President to consider such things as this cultural exchange program, I would say that in a democracy such as ours, one group has as much right to have its opinion heard as any other.

Perhaps peaceful coexistence is impossible between two ideologies such as Marxism Socialism and Capitalism. However, peaceful coexistence between men must be a possibility and a hope or the Christian prayer of "peace on earth" can have no fruitful meaning.

that the $1 fee the city plans to charge may not be a license in the legal sense and therefore would be permissible.

If the reservoir ordinance is passed by Council tonight, it will become effective in 30 days. The ordinance sets the fishing season at the reservoir from April 1 to Oct. 31. Hayes said it may be possible for the utilities commission to have the reservoir open for fishing by April 1 instead of waiting for 30 days.

A contract for the concession stand would then be let as soon as possible, Hayes said. Water department workers would build the stand and toilet facilities.

Two ordinances are expected to be presented tonight for second readings. They would:

1. Prohibit parking on sections of eight streets throughout the city.

2. Reduce water and sewer rates to large industrial users outside the corporation limits.

An ordinance to be introduced would authorize Service Director James Feiler to advertise for bids and enter into contract for the purchase of a three-quarter ton truck to be equipped for use by the city electrical department. A limit of $2,800 will be placed on the truck.

Council President Ford Joseph, Jr., reported there is a possibility that an ordinance declaring it a necessity to extend sanitary sewers to the Hillsdale district on the south edge of town may be introduced tonight. City Engineer F. S. Barkhoff, Jr., recently gave an estimate to Council of $2.43 per front foot for the sewers.

Argentine

bor repudiated the government's protests from his own party, its action against the Peronist victory and said this had freed the union from any restraint at showing their disgust with the government.

Informed sources said it was only a matter of time before intervention was decreed for the five other provinces where Peronists won governorships with the small but vocal support of Communists and admirers of Fidel Castro.

Frontizi's decree said the action was necessary to preserve the republican form of government in Argentina.

Election returns indicated that as many as 45 pro-Peron candidates won congressional seats and Frontizi's Intransigent Radical party lost its majority. Normally all those elected Sunday would take office May 1.

There was no confirmation of reports that a wholesale Cabinet reshuffle was in the works. So far the president had accepted resignations from Interior Minister Alfredo Vitolo, Health Minister Hector Noblia and Public Works Minister Jose Mazar Barnett.

Frontizi, gaunt and tired-looking, gingerly threaded his way through a maze of military and civilian opposition in an effort to keep his four-year-old regime afloat despite the shattering blow his prestige suffered at the polls.

Peronists threatened to stage a nationwide strike.

The party committee of Frontizi's Intransigent Radical party announced that his action was "contrary to the party's adherence to fair electoral play."

The opposition Peoples Radical party, although deeply anti-Peron, was also incensed at the decree.

appeared that the presence of foreign ministers here would help to speed the negotiations toward a successful conclusion.

The conference is under instructions from the U.N. General Assembly to report on progress by June 1. Prior to that time there may be a summit conference. President Kennedy, Khrushchev and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan have all ex-ty, but Kennedy has said he would be willing to attend such a meeting only if progress is first made in the disarmament talks here.

American sources said that so far nothing has occurred to make a summit conference more likely.

Lisbon Employee Plan Rejected by Council

LISBON — At a special meeting Monday night, Village Council informed a delegation of employees that the village was unable to finance the cost of a proposed employee hospitalization plan because of its serious financial situation.

Councilmen discussed the financial picture for the coming year and agreed they could make no further drastic cuts in expenditures without affecting village services. Council has scheduled a public hearing April 2 on a 3-mill village operating levy which will appear on the May primary ballot.

The levy would yield $18,000 annually.

Council's next regular meeting will be Monday at 7:30 p.m.

Boyd

late this afternoon or more probably to Wednesday when the panel will begin deliberations.

The jury of 10 women and two men will be presented five choices of verdicts—guilty of first degree murder, which carries the death penalty; guilty with recommendation of mercy; not guilty; guilty of second degree and guilty of manslaughter.

Boyd testified this morning that he had been changing a tire on his small car in the narrow lane near the state line where he and Nancy Lee—separated Aug. 10—had gone after he picked her up at her home about 3:30 a.m.

He said they had driven around and had gone to the creek area to finish drinking some beer he had in the car.

Discovering the flat tire, he began to change the wheel and the couple began to talk as he was working.

"We talked about little things—I don't remember," he said. "Then we got to talking about the baby, and she said she was going to adopt the baby to her aunt."

Boyd said he didn't remember much after throwing the jack handle until he recalled setting Nancy Lee up against the car with blood all over her.

He said he felt for a pulse "But there was nothing there."

He said he then pulled her over the hillside—"I was scared. I went and picked up the beer cans and threw them into the back. Then I saw the shot gun. I loaded it and went down to where she was."

Atty. Kapp asked, "Do you remember shooting her?"

"Yes sir, I remember."

He said he then went home, changed his bloodied clothes and burned them, along with her purse.

Boyd earlier had testified about the farewell party he attended the night before at which he "had quite a bit to drink."

Where DOES the Money Go?

What happens to the money raised each year from the Kiwanis Kapers Show — How is it spent — Where do the funds go?

We in Kiwanis believe we have some very worthwhile projects and we're anxious to share our ideas with you in the hope that again this year you will continue to support our Kiwanis Kapers Show.

In addition to our normal expenditures for medicines, drugs, and clothing for underprivileged children, during the past year or two we donated $1,500 for the new shelter at Memorial Park; $1,000 for the new ceiling in the gymnasium at the Memorial Building; $400 for a movie projector for the Columbiana County Home; and $400 for a movie projector to be used by the Salem Senior Citizens and other such groups at the Memorial Building. We donate over $700 each year to such projects as Multiple Sclerosis, Salvation Army Summer Camp, United Fund, etc. Our Welfare Budget for this year alone amounts to over $1,800.

We've got a big job to do and we need YOUR support. Even if you are unable to attend the Kiwanis Kapers this year, phone ED 7-7273 for a ticket anyhow and help us help others. With YOUR support, "WE BUILD" will continue to be more than just the motto of Kiwanis.

News of Interest to Farmers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government and the American Meat Institute disagree as to the effectiveness of inspection of about 20 per cent of the meat processed commercially in this country.

The Agriculture Department's meat inspection service says that much of the meat which is not subject to federal inspection does not come up to the health and sanitary standards required of federally inspected meats.

But the meat institute, which represents the nation's larger packing concerns, holds that all but perhaps an insignificant amount meets the federal standards. In a statement, the institute said, however, it is prepared to cooperate in making inspection fully effective.

This difference of view came up as a result of request of President Kennedy, in a special consumer message last week, for legislation broadening federal meat inspection. All meats moving in interstate commerce must be inspected by federal inspectors. Such meats make up about 80 per cent of the total commercial supply.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Foreign Agricultural Service reported today the value of U.S. livestock and livestock product exports rose 5 per cent in 1961 over the previous year. The value was $386 million.

Lard, tallow and greases made up a large part of the foreign sales, totaling $179 million. Hides and skins had a value of $90 million, red meats $36 and cattle and calves $9 million.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Supplies of turkeys, frozen fruits, frozen vegetables and juices stored in refrigerated warehouses on March 1 were at a record high for the date, the Agriculture Department reports.

Stocks of butter were three times the holdings of a year earlier. Stocks of cheese were one-third larger and meats 6 per cent larger than on March 1 last year.

The Other Day

We heard some facts about Egyptian mummies, and made some notes on the lesser known information which we thought you'd find interesting.

As you know, the Egyptians were preserving their dead long before many other parts of the world had reached a civilized state, and they had it down to a science.

For example, the soles of the feet of mummies, when unwrapped after as much as 3000 years, were still soft and elastic.

Historians estimate that by 700 A.D., when the practice had died out among them, the Egyptians had embalmed approximately 730 million bodies, almost one third as many people now living in the entire world, or more than thirteen times the number of all the people now living in the United States.

Of course many have been destroyed, or over the centuries disintegrated in the tropical heat of northern Africa, but several million are estimated to still be preserved in undiscovered tombs and burial places.

It is our job to provide you with a car that will stand up under today's conditions and traffic, and then to preserve it for you so that you can enjoy its use over a longer than normal period. And this is the job that we've got down to a science... and we do so for you most economically.

Reds Nipped By Cardinals 5-4

Yankees Extend Win Skein; Red Sox Edge Indians 2-1

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

How ya gonna keep him down on the farm when he wins ball games for you—especially when he's 19 years old and powders 380-foot home runs?

You're not, concedes Los Angeles Angels' Manager Bill Rigney.

His current phenom is rookie shortstop Jim Fregosi, from Woodside Calif. All Fregosi has to do to nail down a job with the Angels is finish the exhibition season with a .250 batting average.

That shouldn't be too hard at the rate he's going. He whacked a 3-run inside the park home run Monday—a 380-foot shot—in the sixth inning to break a 2-2 tie and propel the Angels to a 6-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs at Palm Springs, Calif.

Fregosi also had a single in four trips to the plate and that brought his average up to .417. Last year, he spent most of the season at Dallas-Fort Worth and finished with a .254 average and only a half-dozen homers.

Dean Chance and Jack Spring divided the pitching for the Angels, who brought their exhibition record up to 5-5.

The two New York clubs, the Yankees and the Mets, continued their streaks but in opposite directions. The world champions clobbered the Milwaukee Braves 10-4 at Fort Lauderdale, for their ninth victory without a defeat. The Mets dropped a 1-0 decision to the Baltimore Orioles at St. Petersburg to extend their losing skein to five. Skinny Brown and Tom Baker pitched the shutout.

In other games, the Boston Red Sox turned back the Cleveland Indians 2-1 at Scottsdale, Ariz.; the Houston Colts outlasted the San Francisco Giants 12-9 at Phoenix; the Los Angeles Dodgers downed the Kansas City A's 4-1 at West Palm Beach; The St. Louis Cardinals edged the Cincinnati Reds 5-4 at Tampa, and the Washington Senators outslugged the Chicago White Sox 15-12 at Pompano Beach.

Roger Maris, who still has not had a home run collected a double and a triple to lead the Yankees' assault.

Bob Miller and Bob Botz combined to pitch a good game for the Mets but they had no support. The only run came in the fifth off Miller on Brooks Robinson's triple and a fielder's choice.

Pete Runnels broke up the Boston-Cleveland game with a 2-out single in the ninth to drive in the winning run.

The Colts combed Jack Sanford for 11 runs on 10 hits in the first four innings. And as it turned out, they needed the barrage because the Giants came back strong.

The A's blanked the Dodgers behind Ed Rakow for six innings. Bill Fischer, who came in the seventh, was the victim of all the Dodgers' runs.

Jim Maloney, plagued by a sore arm last season, started for the Reds against the Cards and in three innings walked seven men and was tapped for three hits, good for four runs.

Washington blasted off to a 15-0 lead against the White Sox, but then fizzled and had to stagger to the triumph. Pete Daley, Dale Long and Chuck Hinton hit early homers for Washington. The White Sox collected a half dozen runs in each of the eighth and ninth with Al Smith connecting for a grand slammer and Sherman Lollar hitting a homer with two on.

Blames 'Bad Press' For Recent Booming

Maris' Newest Edict: 'No More Interviews'

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Roger Maris slumped on a bench in front of his locker in the New York Yankees clubhouse, wiped the perspiration from his brow and reiterated his newest edict: "No more interviews."

A newspaperman walked toward Maris, and with his face showing he had heard of Maris' declaration of policy concerning reporters, mumbled, "Hello, Roger."

Maris looked up.

"I'm fairly certain you've already been asked this question a thousand times," said the reporter, "but—what kind of a year do you expect?"

"I don't know," replied Maris.

"Do you think you'll reach 61 home runs this year?"

"I don't know," Maris.

"How many home runs will you be satisfied to hit?"

"Don't know."

"Sure hot today isn't it," the reporter remarked, making his exit.

Maris looked at his companion.

"Well, what did you expect me to say?" he growled. "New guys but the same old questions. How the dickens do I know what kind of a year I'm going to have. And if there's anybody who can predict how many homers I'm going to hit, he doesn't belong on this earth. He belongs up there."

Maris continued, "Look, I'm not going to change. I can't even if I wanted to. And I don't want to. I'm me, Roger Maris. I could have fed him a whole load of baloney. But I'm not a politician. I can't say things I don't mean. And when I've got nothing to say, I say nothing. If the guy wants to get sore let him. I can't help that."

Maris hasn't been treated kindly by the fans here. He has been booed, and when he left a game after suffering a rib injury, he was jeered. He blames a bad press. Maris reciprocated by clamping up.

"When I came down here," he said, "I had made up my mind I would try to answer every question, no matter how silly, as best I know how. So what happens? I pick up a paper and see where I'm uncooperative and unfriendly. The people read this trash and believe it. I don't blame them. That booing I got made me feel terrible."

"So, no more interviews. The writers are going to rip me if I talk or if I don't. So I'm not going to say anything and let them write what they please—they're going to write what they want anyway."

Paul Brown To Testify In Grid Case

BALTIMORE (AP) — Coach Paul Brown of the Cleveland Browns and Carroll Rosenbloom, president of the Baltimore Colts, were expected to testify today as the National Football League continued its defense in a $10 million antitrust suit.

The American Football League filed the suit, accusing the NFL of monopolistic practices and of expanding into Dallas and Minneapolis-St. Paul in an effort to undermine the new league.

The trial before Chief U.S. District Judge Roszel Thomsen without a jury began Feb. 26.

The judge dismissed several charges at the conclusion of AFL testimony. The NFL began its defense Monday, and attorney Gerhard Gesell said he expected to wind up the case next week.

One of the first witnesses called was Vince Lombardi, coach and general manager of the NFL's champion Green Bay Packers.

Lombardi testified that he advised two AFL coaches on how to get their teams started. He identified them as Lou Rymkus, former coach of the Houston Oilers, and Hank Stram coach of the Dallas Texans.

The two men, Lombardi said, spent three days each with Packer officials in March and April of 1960. That was after the NFL had voted to expand into Dallas.

Hanna, Schaffer, Murphy, Kress Honored

By Associated Press

John Hanna and Jerry Schaffer of United, Dale Murphy of Columbiana and Jim Kress of Crestview each received honorable mention recognition among The Associated Press' Class A All-Ohio high school basketball selections for 1962 released today.

However, no area players were named to the top three teams in the state poll.

Little Dan Neff of unbeaten Ayersville leads the talented array of sizzling stars making up the first team Class A All-Ohio. The Buckeye State's smaller school hotshots were named to the dream team by Ohio's sports writers, coaches and officials.

Neff, a dynamic 5-foot-10 performer who has spearheaded his Defiance County mates to 57 straight victories over a two-year span, made a runaway of the race for No. 1 player honors. The Ayersville standout and Don Spires of Irondale Stanton Local were the only repeaters from the 1961 contingent.

Rounding out the first team unit were Tom Watson of Centerburg, Jerry McDonald of Clarksburg and Al Peters of New Lebanon Dixie.

Average 122.3 Points a Game

The classy quintet boasts a tremendous scoring punch. They have poured in points at a 122.3 clip. McDonald, whose brother Bill won a berth on last year's squad, paced the way with a 27-point average.

Neff, who produced at a 20.5 pace, and Peters, the Dixie dandy who fired at a 24.5 rate figure to stage a stirring duel Friday afternoon when Ayersville's defending champion, and Dixie lock horns in a semi-final tiff at St. John Arena in the state high school tournament.

The other front line players are through for the season — their teams having fallen in tournament competition.

Only four other players scheduled for action in the state meet were accorded honors. Beverly Fort Frye's big gun, Jack Clark, was a second team choice, and Ayersville's John Bricker nailed down a third team berth. Fort Frye's Gary Bates and Andy Ahijewych of Berlin Hiland landed among the honorable mentions.

Ayersville Big Winner

Neff's selection as player of the year brought still another honor to his school. Last week, Ayersville Coach Lee Himmeger was named Class A mentor of the year for the second straight time.

If the Pilots cop the state tournament, they'll boast the coach and player of the year and become the first Class A team ever to win the title three times.

Clark is joined on the second team by Ted Keyser of Buckland, Tom Rathburn of Ashville, Chick Campbell of Atwater and Gary Brown of Buffalo.

The selections, based on regular season games only, were made from the more than 10,000 boys on the state's 500 Class A squads.

Fires 272 For Two-Stroke Edge

Bobby Nichols Takes St. Petersburg Open

By DUKE FERGUSON

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Bobby Nichols, winner of the $20,000 St. Petersburg Open, appears to be a young man on his way up in the golfing world.

The 25-year-old professional, playing out of Midland, Tex., picked up a $2,800 check after posting an 8-under-par 64 in the final round Monday and headed for the $50,000 Doral Open in Miami. Nichols' blazing finish gave him a 272 and a two-stroke edge over runner-up Frank Boynton of Corpus Christi, Tex.

Florida Course Hires Ex-Salem Golf Pro

Andy Mocsary, Salem Golf Club pro from 1946 to 1950, has been hired as head professional at the new Seminole Lakes Golf & Country Club near St. Petersburg, Fla., club officials reported recently.

The 55-year-old golfing expert, in addition to his stint as Salem pro, has been assistant pro at Barber-ton and Shaker Heights Country Clubs, and head professional at Norwalk Country Club in Norwalk.

Mocsary, who has legions of golf students in the St. Petersburg area, had been operating a driving range in the city. His last club pro job was at Sunset Golf & Country Club between 1951-55.

Primarily a teacher, Mocsary does not consider the 62 which was a course record at Sunset for many years, or high finishes in the Ohio and Florida Opens, as his major golf accomplishments. He's prouder of a teaching performance here in Salem several years ago.

As an experiment, he took a legal secretary, Josephine Bergant, now Mrs. Ed Pukalski of 1760 Cleveland St., who had never played the game. He prescribed a course of lessons and practice which did not permit her even one round of golf that summer. The following summer, however, she won the club championship.

Holy Cross-St. John's Match Also On Tap

Bradley, Duquesne Tangle In NIT Tourney Tonight

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Bradley's nationally ranked Braves and St. John's of New York open their drives for the 1962 National Invitation basketball tournament title tonight against a pair of eager opponents who could prove extremely hard to handle for the two seeded powers.

Bradley (21-6) meets Duquesne (21-5) in the opener of the quarter-final doubleheader at Madison Square Garden and St. John's (19-

4) plays Holy Cross (20-5) in the second game. The winners advance to Thursday night's semi-finals, which also match Loyola of Chicago against Dayton.

While Bradley and St. John's were sitting out the first round with byes, Holy Cross and Duquesne were impressively busy. The Crusaders disposed of Colorado State University 72-71 in a rugged squeaker Saturday afternoon and the Dukes followed with a 70-58 rout of Navy.

Bradley's chief threat, of course, is two-time All-America Chet Walker, the versatile 6-6 star who paced the Braves to the 1960 NIT title as a sophomore. Ed Wodka, Lee Edwards and Mickey Tiemann are Bradley's other seasoned regulars, while backcourt men Lavern Tart and Rich Williams are sophomore standouts.

Willie Somerset, a bull-shouldered 5-10 driver, spearheads Duquesne. He showed flashes of mastery in all phases of the game against Navy, including exceptional coolness for a sophomore.

Duquesne was hardly tested against Navy and its performance was something less than inspired. But Bradley coach Chuck Orsborn was not lulled—and for good reason.

"We know how good they can be," Orsborn says. "They beat us (73-72) two weeks ago—and on our own floor."

St. John's Redmen, who haven't been in action since nailing down supremacy of the New York area with a conquest of NYU 11 nights ago, have the problem of spiking a potential double-barreled weapon in their game with Holy Cross. Jack Foley, as usual, showed his patented scoring bursts with 34 points against Colorado State. But the Crusaders had a surprise gunner in Bob Foley, no relation to The Shot, who went 13 points above his average with 21 points and also was a bruiser under the boards.

Holy Cross' main project will be containing LeRoy Ellis, a 6-10 pivot with fluid moves and sprinter's speed. Ellis teams with spunky Kevin Loughery and sturdy Willie Hall up front, while Ivan Kovac and Donnie Burks handle St. John's playmaking.

Youngstown Bowler 1st In Singles Event

DES MOINES Iowa (AP) — Members of the St. Louis Falstaff team turned in one of the best one-day performances in the history of the American Bowling Congress Monday, grabbing first places in the classic division team, doubles and singles standings.

The former ABC and national match game team champions stole the show from Andrew Renaldi of Youngstown, Ohio, who bowled his first 700 series to take first place in the regular singles with a 720 total.

The big performers on the Falstaff team were Glenn Allison, Dick Hoover and Harry Smith.

In five-man play the team finished with a six-game 6218 total by rolling 3222 Monday night, the fourth highest three - game total in the history of the tournament. That block went with a 2996 Sunday night.

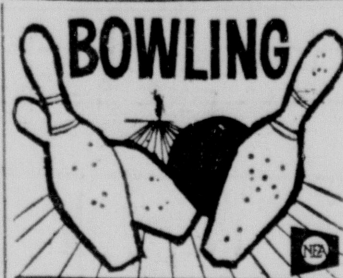

In the doubles, Allison fired a 780 and Hoover added 651 for a 1431 total, second highest two-man total in the ABC's 59 years.

In the singles Smith closed with 263 and grabbed the top spot with 696.

3 Forfeits Recorded In Volleyball Action

Electric Furnace Sales, Electric Furnace Engineering and Electric Furnace Experimental teams each won three-game series by forfeit over Flintstones, Jaycees and Bayless Gas respectively in proposed Adult Volleyball League action Monday night.

The three gift wins by Experimental moved it back into the second round lead with a 22-2 mark. In a second place tie are Post Office, the first round champ, and Franklin Market with a 21-3 records. Fourth place is held by Sevakon on a 19-5 mark.

Questions—Answers

Q—What are asteroids?
A—Between Mars and Jupiter is a gap in otherwise regular spacing of the planets. Thousands of small bodies with orbits occupy this area. They are known as asteroids, planetoids or minor planets.

Q—What law keeps the Australians from becoming too apathetic about politics?
A—Every citizen must vote or pay a fine.

The Doctor Says

By Dr. H. T. HYMAN

Questions and Answers

Q—After suffering for years from what he thought was arthritis, my husband has just found out he has gout. Can you suggest a diet that I can prepare for him in his home?

A—Except to avoid glutinous and alcoholic excesses, there is no need for dietary restriction or special foods in gout. Authorities now are agreed that the gout attack is related to profound chemical changes that occur within the body, not to the composition of foods that are eaten.

Furthermore, control of the internal disturbance is effected better by prescription drugs that either reduce the uric acid content of the blood or that speed uric acid excretion by the kidneys. Your doctor will have to prescribe these drugs for your husband. Be sure you are told how to use them to prevent as well as relieve attacks.

Q—Is it true that a girl can be infected with a social disease as a result of petting?

A—Certain venereal diseases can be acquired innocently. So-called mucus patches, that look like simple canker sores, often are situated in the mouth and throat.

These sores, despite their benign appearance, teem with causative spirochetes that dart across microscopic fields like tadpoles in a shallow pond. Since I presume what you call "petting" includes kissing, you may definitely expose yourself to an innocent infection irrespective of the manner in which your companion acquired his disease.

Q—How good are pills for prevention of poison ivy?

A—Experiences with the Coast Guard have been most encouraging. However, since you should start immunizations at least three months before expected exposure, you'd better get going right away if you want to obtain a satisfactory degree of protection before your summer holidays.

COMMUTER CRUISER — Picture shows diesel-powered cruiser docked in Chicago River which will carry commuters from nearby train stations to North Michigan Avenue in seven minutes—more than twice as fast as they could get there using surface transportation in rush hour congestion. The ship, 65 feet long, can seat about 140 passengers.

Pavement Plato

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Sidewalk comments of a pavement Plato: One of the best ways to judge a person is by his attitude toward money.

Show me a man who has no regard for money at all, and I'll show you a man who is either a simpleton or a saint.

Show me a man who measures the value of everything in terms of money, and I'll show you a fool who has wasted his life.

Practically everyone now and then expresses the desire to be rich, but most people have too much common sense to make that the main goal of their years.

It isn't easy to become wealthy by your own efforts. Unless you are unusually lucky, it takes a lot of hard work, energy and single-minded devotion to the goal of making money. But almost anyone with a brain in his head can become wealthy if he is willing to pay the price.

At least a number of self-made millionaires have told me this.

"It doesn't take extraordinary ability to make a million dollars one said. 'But it does take drive, and often you have to do without a lot of pleasures along the way."

"The big question is whether the money is worth what you miss. I'm not sure that it is."

To me a really tragic figure is a self-made millionaire who decides late in life that money really isn't everything, and that now it is too late for him to achieve the other human satisfactions he lost.

This realization sometimes comes with stunning force to many wealthy men in middle age. They were so preoccupied with piling up money that they never paused to consider what they would do with their lives when they at last had a sufficient pile.

When they do finally pause, they often find what they lost is human love. They often have a spoiled wife, spoiled and snobbish children, few remaining real friends. The people who fawn on them because of their money have no more character than the gnats that circle around a piece of overripe fruit.

The rich people most contented with their lot are those who have had big money in their family for several generations.

Having known nothing but the fat dollar since birth, they have no carefree poverty-stricken youth to recall, no memories of struggle. They take their social position for granted, and they use their money as a casual girdle of comfort to protect them from life's dismays. They never work for money; it works for them.

Being at ease with money, it confers on them an interior self-confidence and assurance the self-made millionaire rarely achieves.

So if you want to be a happy, satisfied man of wealth, don't toil your life away earning it. Just arrange to be born in an old rich family, in which huge bank accounts are traditional.

ford 4-H's met recently in United School.

Children of prents attending the recent PTA meetings were entertained by members of the club, and plans were discussed to repeat the service at the next PTA meeting.

The group will meet again April 9 in room 104 of the school. Mrs. Robert Parks is club adviser.

Butler Jolly Workers

Eleven members of the Butler Jolly Workers 4-H Club met recently in the home of Mrs. Marylee Blossman.

Highlight of the meeting was the election of the following officers: President, Charlene Duriga; vice president, Carol Cobbs; treasurer, Diane Oswald; secretary, Sandy Wendland; recreation, Kathleen Keseg and Carolyn Duriga; health, Ruth Allison; safety, Gail Alsbaugh, devotional leader, Marylou Ernst, and news reporter, Lynn Marshall.

Plans to attend the officers April 12 at Fairfield School were discussed.

TO BE SCRUBBED

CLEVELAND (AP)—The 1,800 seats in Severance Hall will have to be cleaned and many walls may have to be scrubbed in the wake of a fire in an air conditioner Monday.

The blaze caused damage estimated by fire officials at only $200 to $300 to the air conditioner, but the heavy, oily smoke that was sent through the building smudged walls, pictures and seats. About 100 members of the Cleveland Orchestra who had been practicing for the Thursday evening concert left the building.
